The Social Media Marketing Lifecycle

What is Social Media Marketing?

Social Media Marketing is the use of various techniques on social media platforms to spread brand awareness and to promote a product or service to convert a target audience into customers.

Why use Social Media for Marketing?

Cost Effective
We are currently in the age of the great organic reach decline, this means that unpaid content - unless it goes viral - is not going to be enough to reach your target audience and get the conversions that you want.

Target a Global Audience
Using social media you can reach and target an international audience to purchase your product or service.

New Markets
With audience data you are able to identify new potential markets that you could target and sell to.

Audience Engagement
Marketing is increasingly becoming a two-way street - according to sprout social nearly half of all consumers have taken to social media to ask questions or raise concerns allowing you to have meaningful interactions with your customers.

Access to Audience Insights
Not only does social allow you to communicate with your customer, but to get feedback and comments on your product or services and data on who your audience is. At this point however, it is important to note that all of your followers will translate into buying customers.

Business or Industry Intelligence Gold Mine
You can also monitor trends within your industry to create content.

Comprehensive Competitive Analysis
You are able to see what your competitors are doing, how many followers they have and what their followers like or dislike allowing you to gauge what types of content you can create.

Social Shopping is on the Rise
Depending on your location, your audience is able to immediately purchase and pay directly on the social platform.

Social media trends

Images
Our brain only needs 1/10 of a second to understand an image and people remember visual information 6 times better than information that they have read or heard. Content with relevant images tend to get about 94% more views than content without images.

Video
Video in particular is on the rise. Views for branded video content on YouTube have almost doubled over the last 3 years, while Facebook has seen an increase of 258% increase in branded video views.

Ephemeral Content

Influencers and micro-influencers
The use of either well-known celebrities or a more community based approach by using brand ambassadors. 49% of consumers depend on influencer recommendations and 40% will purchase something after seeing it on Twitter, YouTube and Facebook. You need to be extremely careful with influencers, consumers are wising up to marketing techniques and they can smell inauthentic content from a mile away.

Messenger and Chatbots
Users are looking for authentic, personalised experiences from brands - using messenger platforms such as Facebook Messenger, provides a more personal experience for your users. 47% of consumers say that they would buy a product from a chatbot.

Mobile
Mobile usage has surpassed desktop usage - adapting your content to mobile is becoming extremely important.

Interactive Content
This is creating content that engages your audience based on their participation. 90% of consumers report that they want more visual and interactive content from brands.

Employee Advocacy
Using your employees to promote your brand through their social media channels. 53% of people will trust a regular employee compared to 47% who will trust a CEO, and even more people, 65%, will trust a company technical expert.

Employee advocacy also benefits employees as 86% of employees involved in a formal advocacy program say that it had a positive affect on their careers.
